

Portable audio

Wednesday, July 23

News, previews, and rumors

http://reviews.cnet.com/2001-6450_7-0.html

CD ripping en masse

7/22/03: Building an MP3 collection one CD at a time is easy enough, but what if you want to rip and encode a large collection in a short time? One solution is to box up your CDs and send them to Get Digital in Indianapolis. The company is offering a new next-day ripping service that can transform that stack of CDs into files in MP3, WMA, AAC, WAV, or the codec of your choice, at a variety of bit rates. The going rate is about $3 per CD. If you're late getting into the MP3 game (and have more money than you have time), this service could be a great way to catch up.